

“I found the two years with the Centre for Leadership Studies to be an amazing experience. I learnt so much about myself and my framing of my leadership arena. This came from not only the course material, but also the coaching that the experienced staff provided and the other students who came from very different working environments and therefore could provide contrasting perspectives on topical areas”.

Coached Distance-Learning Programmes in Leadership

- Develop your leadership skills
- Discover the latest thinking in leadership
- Bespoke leadership training for your organization
- Work from anywhere in the world
- Personal coaching from a virtual tutor

The Centre for Leadership Studies at the University of Exeter Business School is a world leader in the delivery of accredited Leadership programmes. We believe that adults learn best when building on their own experiences; our programmes give you access to the latest leadership thinking which are then analysed in the context of your own career.

Available at Certificate, Diploma and Masters levels, the coached e-learning delivery mode is supported by weekly contact with a personal tutor, multimedia study materials, a dedicated website, on-line discussion with fellow students and a personal learning log. The Certificate programme is also available as a bespoke training package to organizations to help them prepare their leaders of the future.

“Leadership knows no boundaries. You don’t need to be in a classroom to fully grasp and understand leadership. The Centre for Leadership Studies creates an interactive, relevant and dynamic program that I can feel part of – all the way from Canada. It is where you can combine thoughts and practice to better understand yourself, the class and the concepts”.
