Your journey starts here

Do you have your sights set on a prestigious career in business? Or do you want to make it to the top of fashion, film, government or working for charitable causes? Whatever you want in life, the ACCA Qualification can take you all the way.

And here you are, right at the beginning of your journey. This is going to be a hugely interesting and rewarding experience for you – one where you’ll work hard, learn a lot and steadily and surely gain the skills and experience you need to open doors all over the world.

And like all things that are worth doing in life, this journey will take effort and planning. Which is why it’s good to know that we’re here to support you all the way. We’ll be here while you’re studying, while you’re gaining the experience that’s essential to get your qualification – and we’ll be here to help pick you up and get you back on track if you ever struggle along the way.

It will all be worth it. Because when you become an ACCA professional, employers all over the world will seek you out – knowing that you will immediately be able to add value to their organisations.

So welcome. You’re one of over half a million students worldwide right now, all working towards a globally-respected qualification that will allow you to make a difference in your workplace – and in the world.

Don’t miss out – follow us on social media. We’re on Facebook, LinkedIn, twitter and Instagram

Start studying

Decide how you want to study

How do you want to learn?
We strongly recommend studying with one of our Approved Learning Partners, who are expertly trained to maximise exam success. Whether you choose online learning or classroom based is up to you.

Remember…
When you study with one of our Approved Learning Partners, you’re statistically more likely to succeed.

Set out your exam schedule

You’re more likely to meet your goals if you plan an exam schedule and use our study support guides to get you there.

We offer three exam formats:
On-demand computer-based exams (CBEs), session CBEs and traditional paper-based exams.

Checklist: Make your plan

- Find a learning partner
  - Our Approved Learning Partners offer global best practice in development and learning. We also assess them regularly to make sure they maintain their high standards.
  - Find an Approved Learning Partner: accaglobal.com/tuitionproviderdirectory

- Go to our online exam planner via the ACCA website or use your wall chart
  - Before you even start to study, it helps to plan your exam schedule – then you know how to prioritise your time.
  - Access our online exam planner here: accaglobal.com/exam-info
  - Review the exam-specific study support guides to establish the required time frame for exam preparation

- Get started!
Set out your study schedule

Once you’ve scheduled your exams, it helps if you plan all your study time too. Generally, we find that most exams take about 12 weeks to prepare for – but your learning partner may have a slightly different approach, and that’s fine.

It’s also good to remember that we call the path to membership a journey for a good reason – it takes time and effort. And like most journeys, there may be times when you struggle and where you don’t hit every milestone you set for yourself. If you don’t pass an exam, try to see the experience as a way to gain resilience and the ability to approach challenges from different angles. Remember, these are qualities that employers are actively looking for. And of course, we’ll be right here to help you get back on track.

Prepare to shine

In the workplace

One of the many reasons that employers seek out ACCA members is their real-world knowledge and experience. They go into the workplace ready to be noticed because in addition to the skills and knowledge gained through the qualification, including our innovative Ethics and Professional Skills module, ACCA members can also evidence 36 months of experience in a relevant role.

It’s called your Practical Experience Requirement (PER) – and it comprises nine performance objectives. To achieve your PER, you must provide regular updates on what you are doing in the workplace, and when you have achieved any performance objective.

If you’re studying full time and don’t have any work experience yet, you also have to let us know this via the online MyExperience tool. You can find this on myACCA.

Something to think about...

You could gain experience by doing voluntary work for clubs, charities and associations.

Checklist: It’s never too early to think about your Practical Experience Requirement – or find out about the Ethics and Professional Skills module

Prepare for your dream career

Employers across the world actively seek out ACCA professionals. They know that ACCA-qualified people are skilled, well-rounded, able individuals who give their organisations a strategic edge.

To progress rapidly, you need to start thinking about your career now. You might already be in a relevant role. But if not, you have to think about which organisations will be able to give you the right professional experience to allow you to qualify. You have to start making the connections you’ll need in professional life – and it helps to keep absolutely up-to-date with all the issues affecting financial professionals.

Checklist: Put yourself in a position to find your dream role

And in the world

Professional, ethical accountancy is central to the economies of nations all over the world – and it’s critical for organisations that wish to flourish and trade globally.

That’s why one of the key milestones on your ACCA journey is gaining the Ethics and Professional Skills module.

You can take the Ethics and Professional Skills module at a time that suits you, after the Applied Knowledge exams, but we think you’ll get the most from it if you complete it before you study for Strategic Business Leader.

Something to think about…

You could gain experience by doing voluntary work for clubs, charities and associations.
