A FRESH APPROACH

Who we are

First Intuition Learning Solutions Ltd (FILS) is the international subsidiary of FI Ltd.

We work in partnership with universities, academies and colleges worldwide to build online learning capacity.

First Intuition is a multi-award winning training provider, recognised globally as a pioneer in professional training. As an early adopter of online technology, FI now takes a digital-first approach to pedagogy and delivery.

Student learning data forms the basis of our teaching and learning technology. We use data to identify engagement trends and learning patterns which in turn shape our content and product development.

Globally, over 10,000 students rely on the FI network to successfully progress through their professional exams and realise their full potential.

How we work

Learning technology and data are central to the FI product, using it to shape our online learning and build digital intelligence.

We analyse the data behind the learning to identify student behaviour and engagement patterns. Our in-house publishing and course development team apply these trends to our LMS and content design.

This commitment to product development is why FI have been awarded College of the Year on five occasions, most recently winning 'Online College of the Year' in 2020.

The approach

We believe the most effective way to build successful, sustainable training capacity is through partnerships. We work on a strategic basis with each of our partners designing solutions that reflect their individual training and market requirements.

We put our partners at the heart of our international strategy and offer exclusive market terms and support to ensure their growth and success. Through a consultative, collaborative approach, we ensure our solutions remain relevant and reflect changing global education and learning trends.

Our LMS and partnership models are all designed to build partner capacity and therefore improve the progression, pass-rates and experience of their students.

MODULAR, MOBILE LEARNING

LMS

Professional education is rapidly changing, not only in the way it is taught but also in the way it is examined.

The shift to online delivery and testing requires a level of digital literacy that both tutors and students are expected to demonstrate by both professional bodies and future employers.

Our LMS has up to 4 computer-based mock exams per course, allowing students to not only better prepare for the final exam but also for the digital workplace they will join.

We understand that international students have different learning styles and requirements, so our courses are designed to suit different learning objectives.

Our solution allows our partners to customise their digital delivery and build a LMS content portfolio that reflects the markets they are operating in.

Integrating with Moodle and most third-party platforms, our partners can select from a standalone FI LMS or integrate with their existing learning platform.

The impact

At FI we pride ourselves on our exam results and student progression; through our global partnerships, we work to see this same success in our clients' markets, which in turn will drive training capacity and organic growth.

By adopting an exam-focused approach for every student from the point of enrolment, as well as experiencing ongoing assessment and tracking throughout each course, we can ensure students are confident and exam-ready.

As professional exams move almost exclusively online, an appropriate preparatory approach must be adopted to prepare students for the exam environment. We integrate unique mock CBE test platforms within all of our courses to offer students an unrivalled CBE experience.

FI track all LMS engagement data and benchmark it against exam performance to identify the optimum learning experience and approach for students.

The results

FI found a positive correlation between the number of exams attempted on our online learning platform and their students' pass rates.

Meaning the more mock exams students took before the final, the higher chance they had of passing.
